

6. Mammals have evolved different patterns of ovulation which are controlled by changes in hormone concentrations and affected by copulation (sexual intercourse). The graphs below show the changes in concentrations of LH, FSH and progesterone during the menstrual cycles of a human and a rabbit.

[9 QER]

[illegible]

19
1400U401

Examiner
only

Blank area for student response with horizontal dotted lines.

Examiner
only

1400U401
21

9

