

8. Vaccines are used to protect against disease.

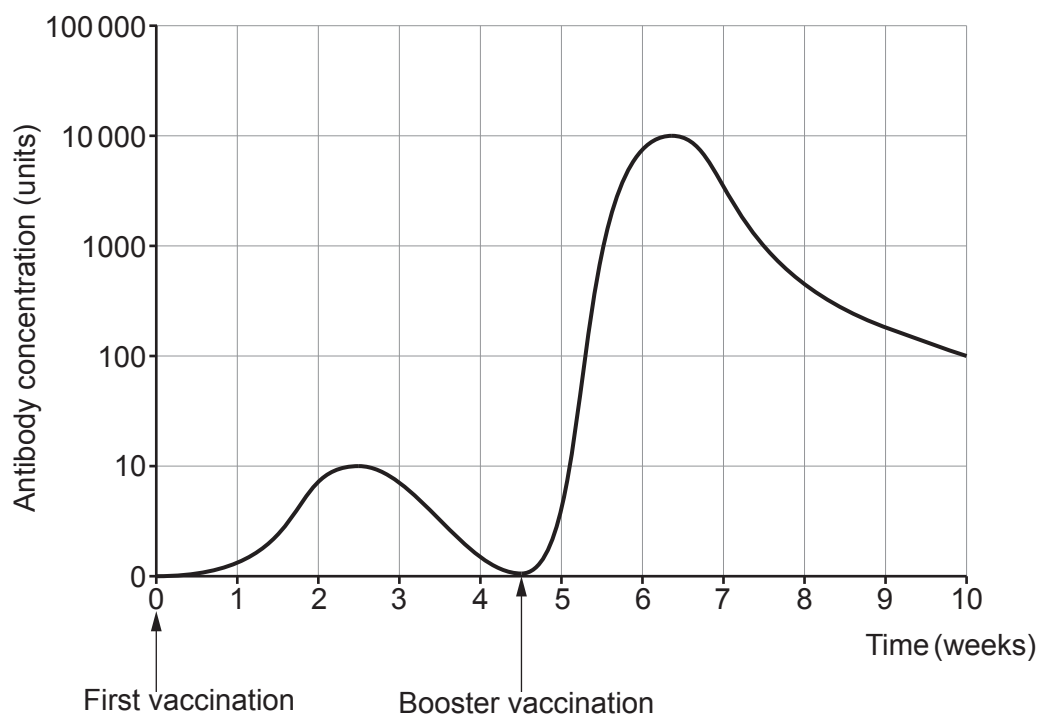

(a) Complete the following sentences about how the body reacts after infection or vaccination by underlining the correct term in the brackets.

(i) Vaccines contain molecules called (antibodies / antigens / memory cells). [1]

(ii) White blood cells respond to these molecules and produce (antibodies / antigens / pathogens). [1]

(iii) (Antibiotics / antigens / memory cells) are produced following infection or a vaccination. [1]

(b) The graph below shows the immune response over a 10-week period when a vaccine was given as two doses.

Describe the changes in antibody concentration over 10 weeks using data from the graph. [6 QER]

.....

.....

.....

.....

Examiner
only

9

